

Bank System

- A bank system contains data on customers(identified by name and address) and their accounts.
- Each account has a balance and there are 2 type of accounts: one for savings which offers an interest rate, the other for investments, used to buy stocks.
- Stocks are bought at a certain quantity for a certain price (ticker) and the bank applies commission on stock orders.